ENCHANTING ENTRANCE

BARBARA WESTBROOK,
WESTBROOK INTERIORS

FLIGHTS OF FANCY WERE ON DISPLAY IN BARBARA WESTBROOK'S dramatic entry hall and foyer, where a pair of Tom Corbin's bronze sculptures—illuminated by paintings from Pryor Fine Art—draw the eyes upward to the sweeping staircase, and porcelain butterflies (hand-imprinted with varying patterns of antique lace) appear to be flying toward the daylight-lit oculus above. A round walnut inlaid table anchors the lofty space, while Ochre's Seed Cloud chandelier presides over the front entrance, glimmering against the moody movement of the custom wallcovering by Area Environments. A feminine dash of whimsy greeted guests upon ascending the circular staircase, thanks to Porta Romana's duck feet lamp topped by a chic ostrich shade, artist Clay Johnson's acrylic-on-panel, "Flagstaff," and a mix of bronze and gilded bowls. —Elizabeth Ball
